“The future belongs to those who believe in the beauty of their dreams”

– Eleanor Roosevelt

Handwriting analysis is a very useful tool that can help both adult and children in getting to know their inner personality better. Although the children’s personality is still under development stage, handwriting analysis would be a tool to help them develop successful personality as early as possible.

As the handwriting could reveal the personality, it would be able to help you to understand your children better. Personalities such as their thinking patterns, self-esteem, self-confidence, their fear and others capabilities are revealed in their handwriting.

By understanding them better through their handwriting, you would be able to develop them further, help them improve and assist them in achieving their dreams.

Which is better? Developing something you know or something you are not sure about?

Lesson # 1

Did your children write their “d” stems shaped like an upside down “V”?

This stroke revealed stubbornness. The more the “d” stem braced, the more your children would brace to defend their own ideas. The truth is your children have develop a fear of being wrong due to past experiences. Therefore once they have made up their mind, they don’t want to be confused with the facts even if the decision they made is wrong.

Can you eliminate this habit from your children? Yes, you can. One of the ways is by changing their handwriting.

You should teach them to write like what you see below:

Teach your children to write the “d” like the above without any additional stroke such as upside down d or loops. Make sure they practise this.

This will develop a person who listen to other people’s opinion and not sensitive to criticism where without this two traits your children would not be afraid to venture into new things.

Lesson # 2

What type of mental process your children have?

Company consultancies can be tightly or loosely tied to market and producer units. This depends on their

Look at the “m” and “n” in the above sample. If your children write like the above i.e. round of flat-topped m’s and n’s, they have what being call cumulative thinking pattern.

Your children need to learn thing facts by facts. They need to understand page one before they could move on to page two.

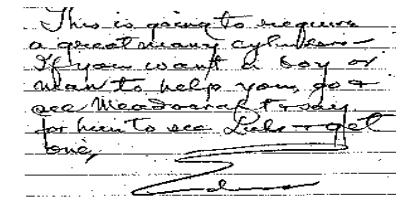

Your children would need all the facts before making a decision. They may take a long time to learn something however once they understand what is being taught they are going to remember it for a very long time.

They could even develop something new from what they had learned and understand.

Your children are methodical procedural type of people. When you are teaching them something you would need to allow them to do it themselves so that they could understand better.

Lesson #3

Do you know what is the most common habit in successful people? It’s determination. Would you want your children to be the type of people who determine to achieve their dreams?

Who do you think is the writer of the above? Do you know that the handwriting above shows that the writer is very determine, has strong willpower and very enthusiastic in achieving his goal?

This writer is a persistent person especially when encountered with roadblocks and obstacles. Additional to the above this person has high self-esteem and high goals.

These are the qualities that are necessary in successful people personality. What actions you need to take to ensure that your children have these qualities?
